5. Defendant CMS-Main Office is the parent company of CMS-Delaware and as such is solely responsible for setting policies, regulations, practices, rules and daily internal operations for the administration and provision of health services to Delaware prisoners. Defendant CMS-Main Office has been deliberately indifferent to plaintiff's need for treatment by not designating and/or classifying periodontal disease as a chronic care disease and giving preferential treatment to patients diagnosed with other chronic conditions, in violation of plaintiff's Eighth and Fourteenth Amendment rights.

6. Defendant Stan Taylor, as DOC Commissioner from January 2004 through 2006, authorized the ban on dental floss at the Delaware Correctional Center and failed to improve dental services for prisoners at the Del. Corr. Ctr. (DCC) when he entered into an exclusive contract with CMS, in violation of plaintiff's Eighth and Fourteenth Amendment rights.

7. Defendant Joyce Talley was the Bureau Chief for the Bureau of Management Services of the Delaware DOC and was specifically in charge of oversight of prisoner health care services and the medical vendor's compliance with its contract, including responsibility for detailed reviews of inmate-prisoner grievances from January 2004 through 2006. Defendant Joyce Talley knew or should have been aware that plaintiff's right(s) to be properly treated for his chronic periodontal disease was/were being violated, and in her capacity violated plaintiff's Eighth and Fourteenth Amendment rights.

WHEREFORE plaintiff prays that this Honorable Court grant this motion.

Respectfully submitted,

Dated: March 20, 2007
